

With you all the way!

Based in Lohne (Germany), Biochem is a family-owned company that develops and markets feed additives for animal nutrition. In keeping with the slogan „Feed Safety for Food Safety®“ and in compliance with GMP+, QS, DIN EN ISO 9001, and HACCP standards, Biochem produces high-quality supplements and feed additives in powder form along with water-soluble products, pastes, and liquids for pigs, poultry, ruminants, and horses. 4FEED!® stands for innovative feed additives that focus on dietary aspects to support gut health and increase nutrient utilization. Biochem farm concepts also support veterinarians and livestock farmers in maintaining and improving animal health. Continuous scientific research together with independent, internationally-recognized institutes is a top priority for the German company. For more than 35 years this has resulted in innovative and effective products and concepts within the triad of ecology, economy, and food safety. With more than 350 employees, Biochem is present with branch operations and a distribution network in over 70 countries worldwide.

To strengthen our product management team in Lohne we are seeking a:
Veterinarian - focus on ruminant nutrition (m/f/d)

Your Responsibilities:

- Technical support for the product range of feed supplements for calves and ruminants
- Technical training and support of sales staff
- Competition analyses, editing of documents and sales materials
- Development and maintenance of the product range and strategic positioning
- Supervision of scientific and field trials with universities and/or customers
- Conducting lectures and publications as well as participating in scientific conferences

Your Qualifications:

- University degree in veterinary medicine or agricultural sciences (focus on animal nutrition ruminants)
- Good knowledge of modern animal husbandry, animal nutrition, and the feed industry
- Some years professional experience
- Strong presentation and communication skills
- High level of teamwork, organisational skills, and initiative
- Very good written and spoken English, other foreign languages are a plus
- Willingness to travel

What Biochem can offer you:

- Very interesting and challenging work in an internationally successful company
- Flat hierarchies, flexibility, and quick decisions
- Attractive and performance driven salary as well as numerous benefits

www.biochem.net

Feed Safety for Food Safety®

With you all the way!

- Full-time job in an internationally successful company
- Home office - possible by arrangement

Become a part of our team!

If this job opportunity sounds like it could arouse your professional passion, and if it is aligned your experiences, knowledge, and skills, please email us your application including salary expectations to recruiting@biochem.net.

For any kind of questions, contact Mr. Michael Blömer directly at +49 4442 9289 - 42.

www.biochem.net

 Biochem

Feed Safety for Food Safety®