Dear Student,

I congratulate you on your admission and look forward to welcoming you to the University of Veterinary Medicine Budapest. Based on my more than three decades of experience in teaching anatomy, I see that there is hardly a more sensible investment for the student than the purchase of medical hand instruments of appropriate quality.

Our university is offering that, and I recommend you choose from these: sets larger than the minimum (S) with finely controllable forceps and dissecting scissors (M), artery clamps (L), which facilitate the removal of organs, a retractor as an access aid, and the instrument cases (XL) allow for more comfortable and professional work and help to learn. Later also during the clinical subjects. If you don't lose them, they will serve you throughout your veterinary career. The order can be taken seriously by making a payment:
