

Our client is a friendly small animal clinic in southwest Germany. The team consists of over 100 employees, including more than 30 veterinarians. The communication between team members, from Diplomate to intern, is informal and uncomplicated. Extensive and state-of-the-art technology clearly characterize the clinic.

The ophthalmological department has become particularly strong in recent years. In order to meet the high demand, we are looking for another veterinarian for a newly created position.

Ophthalmologist (m/f/d)

Functions:

- As an expert, you together with a colleague specialized in ophthalmology, are responsible for the diagnostics and therapy of referred patients with ocular findings
- The main focus of the daily routine is the handling of ophthalmological patients
- The ophthalmic surgical care of the patients is also in your hands
- You deal with patient owners with a healthy sense of empathy and a good feeling for what is medically feasible
- You will work closely with all other veterinarians in the clinic on an interdisciplinary basis and share your knowledge with younger colleagues
- You stay in constant contact with the referring veterinarians
- Depending on your qualifications, you promote the acquisition of further referrers and offer the opportunity to be available as an expert and colleague through in-house training
- The working week consists of four working days plus shifts

The requirements:

- You have several years of professional experience and a versatile repertoire of ophthalmological cases including surgeries
- You have acquired ophthalmological qualifications (additional designation, Diplomate ECVO or ACVO) or are aiming for one in the near future and/or are a member of the DOK or the ESVO or FVO
- Ideally, routine in cataract or laser surgery and interest in OCT
- You strive for continuous further development and training, also internationally
- You enjoy working with other specialists and consider a patient as a whole
- Willingness to work off-duty in case of ocular emergencies

The offer:

With the knowledge you have acquired, you will have the rare opportunity to contribute to a team of all-rounders and specialists. Several specialist veterinarians and Diplomates work in the clinic. If you have the appropriate qualifications, you will have the status of senior ophthalmologist. External further training is generously supported by the clinic management through days off or financially. The most modern technical equipment with new CT, MRI and ultrasound is available for you and your patients.

The clinic is on the outskirts of a well-known university town with the best infrastructure for the whole family. The transport connection is ideal. Two low mountain ranges popular with hikers and other athletes are on the doorstep. France and Switzerland are just a stone's throw away.
